

HISTORY

Turpin Meadow Ranch located in the Rocky Mountains is surrounded by the majestic Tetons and a colorful history. Since 1913, the Teton Wilderness Area, nestled between the Turpin Meadow Ranch and Yellowstone National Park, has hosted an endless number of big game hunters; and for good reason. The elk, moose, mule deer, and Rocky Mountain big horn sheep traveling through the Thorofare, around Open Creek, by the Trident, on the Thorofare Plateau, and near Hawk's Rest bring the hunters back year after year.

Turpin Meadow Ranch is situated in Wyoming's premier hunting area in Bridger-Teton Wilderness Area and Bridger-Teton National Forest. This is one of the most beautiful and productive hunting areas in the lower 48 states covering hundreds of thousands of acres.
